Donnelly May Ask US Drought Aid

Considers Proposal To Have Missouri Declared Drought Disaster Area

BULLETIN
JEFFERSON CITY — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today asked President Eisenhower to designate the entire state of Missouri a drought disaster area eligible for federal aid.

Returning to drought-stricken Missouri today, Gov. Phil M. Donnelly conferred with C. Carpenter on a proposal that the entire state be declared a drought disaster area. Carpenter, state agricultural commissioner, was one of the governor's first callers as Donnelly got back to his desk after a week at the National Governors' Conference.

Donnelly said he probably would ask the White House later today to make all of Missouri eligible for federal drought aid.

The governor's Drought Emergency Committee took a look at dwindling crop prospects and increasing cattle liquidation in an all day session yesterday. Then it recommended:

1. That all 114 counties in the state be designated for disaster aid. In last year's feed crisis only 85 counties were drought areas in the federal view.

2. That the government resume immediately its beef purchase program to take the price pressure off of cows and commercial grade cattle now pouring into the livestock terminals.

3. That stocks of grain stored by the Commodity Credit Corporation be made available immediately for livestock feed in the drought areas.

Last year the state had funds to help finance its unique hay shipping program, enabling farmers to carry dairy and beef herds through the lean winter months.

Now, with 100-plus temperatures and hot winds taking their toll of crops and water supplies, a third straight year of drought has made it impossible for many farmers to carry their livestock any longer.

Some are out of feed, others out of water.

The drought committee concluded the only answer would be resumption of the federal program of buying commercial grade beef for the school lunch program and charitable institutions.

James W. Burch, state extension director, outlined some things farmers can do for themselves in the drought fight.

He urged all of them to cut their corn now and get it into silos as fast as possible. As grain it won't make much of a crop he said, but as silage it can help feed any foundation stock the farmers are able to keep.

Then, he said, fields should be prepared at once for seeding of small grains the first time there's a shower. That would provide some fall pasture.

Burch also suggested that farmers cut their herds carefully, selling old or poor animals first. And he said everyone will have to pitch in for the fight against grasshoppers.

A delegation from Audrain County appealed to the committee to include Audrain as a disaster county this year. It was one of the counties not eligible for federal aid in 1953.

Jenkins Will Not Be a Candidate

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Ray H. Jenkins said today he will not permit his name to go on the November election ballot for U.S. senator regardless of whether he is nominated in the Republican primary next month.

False Alarm

Lightning flashed, thunder roared and sporadic showers fell Monday evening in various parts of the county, but none in appreciable amounts. Sedalia had but .06 inch.

To the north, Georgetown had a fairly good shower while Hughesville, further to the northwest, had but a trace.

The electrical and thunderstorm was accompanied by cooling breezes that followed a hot afternoon with a temperature reading of 108. The breezes were most welcome and proved conducive for a comfortable night for slumber.

Partly cloudy and continued hot tonight and Wednesday with a chance of a few scattered thundershowers tonight. Low tonight in the upper 70s. High Wednesday 100-105.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 75; 101 at 1 p. m., and 102 at 2 p. m. Rainfall .06 inch Monday night.

One year ago today here high 97, low 75; two years ago 94, 72; three years ago 93, 71.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks 55.2 steady.

East and West Agree to Partition Viet Nam Along 17th Parallel; US Does Not Join In GENEVA — East and West, with the United States standing aside, agreed late today to partition Viet Nam roughly along the 17th parallel, a French source said. He reported only technical difficulties remained to be settled before signing of a cease-fire agreement for Indochina.

The partition line, it was said, will run about 12 miles north of the important Highway No. 9, leading from Quang Tri on the coastal road to Savannakhet in Laos.

City Council Hears Extensive Report On Traffic Problems

St. Louis Traffic Authority Recommends Methods For Improving Sedalia's Traffic Problems; Resurfacing Also Considered

By Peter Potter

The City Council received an extensive report on Sedalia's traffic problems and recommendations for solving them by Joseph J. Feuchter, president of Traffic Associates, St. Louis, at the Council's meeting Monday night.

The Council also (1) received remonstrances on seven of the 11 streets approved for resurfacing, (2) approved resurfacing of shorter stretches of some of those same streets, (3) approved standardizing the width of entrance pipes and culverts, (4) accepted the resignation of Virgil L. Corson as a member of the Sedalia Library board, (5) approved purchase of a forced feed loader for street construction at a cost of $2,850, and (6) heard another reminder from Councilman Carlton Kelley for the necessity of keeping expenditures within the closely defined limits of the budget.

Points to Traffic Accidents
Prefacing his report with the statement that Sedalia has a monthly average of about 37 traffic accidents with seven injuries, Feuchter said that more than 73 per cent of them occurred on only six streets—Broadway, Main, Ohio, Third, Osage and Lamine.

"Traffic congestion, delay and accidents cost the people of Sedalia, directly or indirectly, thousands of dollars per year," he said.

His recommendations, which range all the way from a master traffic plan to the need of pedestrian crosswalks at certain intersections, are centered, he said, on four chief areas: realization of the need for remedial action, development of a master plan, carrying out that plan despite "pressure," and the provision of adequate facilities, personnel and equipment.

For Traffic Commission
He asked that the mayor establish a traffic advisory commission, act as a clearing agency for traffic problems and to initiate a master plan, on both long-range policies and immediate details.

Other items recommended were enforcement of a time limit on parking, elimination of all double parking, standardization of all traffic control devices, a program of street resurfacing, minimum street requirements, regulations for new subdivision development and the purchase of two additional police cars and a Tri-car for checking parking violations.

Remonstrance On Streets
Remonstrances were received for resurfacing: Third, Hancock to Engineer; Fifth, Lamine to Engineer; Fifth, Lamine to Grand; Fourth, Lamine to Grand; Seventh, Lamine to Grand; Engineer, south property line of MKT to Broadway; and Wilkerson, Monterey to Grand.

Councilman Woodrow Garrison said he was glad to know that not all of the projects had been opposed. He said that many property owners did not understand what the object of the program was and that after a while more owners would probably agree to the work.

He added that delay means greater cost of repair.

Approve More Streets
The Council then approved resolutions to establish the grade and to replace these pipes and culverts with those of proper size. Property owners will provide the pipe and the city forces will place them.

All entrance pipe will be removed when ditches are pulled and the streets are graded. Pipe that is all right will be replaced, but pipe that is too small will be replaced with approved pipe of either precast concrete or an approved metal standard culvert pipe which will be approved by the city engineer's office. No pipe smaller than 8 inches in diameter will be approved.

To Buy Conveyor
The Council adopted a resolution authorizing Mayor Julian Bagby to execute a conditional sales contract with the Hobson Equipment Co. for a forced feed loader. Councilman Garrison explained that the conveyor was needed badly and would permit considerable saving in the cost of loading dirt. The present cost is $3.1 a cubic yard, he said. With the new loader, it will be 30 cents a cubic yard.

Councilman Kelley, chairman of the finances and taxes committee, reminded the department heads that it is necessary for them all to remain within the budget. He said that it was set up in such a fashion that it provided the maximum for expenditures in each of the departments and that the chairmen must carefully scrutinize their department budgets.

Ordinances Passed
Four ordinances were passed Monday night. Two of them dealt with curb and gutter construction, one of them establishing the grade for such work on East Ninth, from the east line of Thompson to the west line of Hancock, and the other permitting letting a contract for establishing the grade for curb and gutter work on Sneed, from the south line of 16th to the north line of 18th.

Another approved and accepted the work of M. C. Flippin on curbs and gutters, on Autumn, from Spring to Liberty Park Boulevard.

The last was for seal coating approximately seven miles of Sedalia streets and for advertising for bids for such work.

New Ordinances Read
Several ordinances were read for the first time, including: one to authorize the purchase, for $500, the northeast corner of 14th and Missouri for park purposes; one letting a contract for a sewer in Sewer District 94; two to establish the grade for curbs and gutters on West 14th, from Sneed to Park. des-France and Pham Van Dong, the Viet Minh foreign minister.

Mendes-France was reported by French sources to be cautious, but "very optimistic." He has pledged to sign as premier unless a cease-fire agreement is reached by midnight (5 p.m. CST).

The two major obstacles to the signing of an armistice appeared surmounted and conference quarters said an agreement before midnight appeared certain.

Settlement of the partition issue came after the Communists had agreed not to press for inclusion of the United States among the powers approving the agreement and had reached a settlement of the problem of Laos.

The United States delegate, Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, did not participate in the final meetings to hammer out the agreement. The United States has opposed any partition of Viet Nam.

It was learned that the Chinese Communists, who originally asked that the United States be included in the list, were now not inclined to insist on this point. This block, thrown into the negotiations at the 11th hour, had dampened optimism for a while.

A responsible Laotian source said that agreement also was reached on the question of regroupment of "resistance forces" in Laos and the withdrawal of an estimated 10,000 Viet Minh troops in that kingdom within 60 days.

A few minor issues remained to be settled.

Premier Mendes-France has pledged to the French Parliament that he will get a peace by midnight or quit.

The meeting at French delegation headquarters of Molotov, Eden, Mendes-France and Dong started shortly before noon. The participants, with Molotov at the head of the table, had bulky piles of conference documents before them as they sat down.

In addition to the question of signature, they faced differences over participation of Viet Nam, the date of elections and the question of Viet Minh forces in Laos.

One highly placed Western source, previously pessimistic about the chances for peace, said conclusion of a settlement was almost certain.

Pham Van Dong, foreign minister of the Communist Viet minh and once the stiffest and most unyielding of the Red representatives here, told correspondents he was "absolutely sure" of an armistice.

It was expected that the full nine-party conference would remain in session today until a cease-fire was signed.

Charge GOP Helped Oust Clyde Powell

New York Builder Tells Senators Of Party's Moves

WASHINGTON — David Muss, a New York builder of government insured apartments, testified to Senate probes today that the Republican National Committee had interceded to get Clyde L. Powell ousted from his top housing job.

Muss told the Senate Banking Committee that Guy T. Holliday, former head of the Federal Housing Administration, had sent Powell a letter last March asking him to leave.

Enclosed in that letter, Muss said, was another from the GOP national committee and Muss described the committee letter as saying, in Muss' own words, that the GOP committee had "been waiting for some time" to have Powell dismissed.

Muss said Powell showed him a copy of that letter shortly afterward, at a time when Muss and his partner, Norman K. Winston, were considering hiring Powell at $12,000 a year plus a small interest in the Muss-Winston building business. That was about the amount of Powell's government salary, Muss said.

Powell twice has refused to testify before the Banking Committee headed by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.). Both times he stood on the Fifth Amendment, which says no person shall be compelled to testify against himself.

Muss said that when the housing scandals broke on April 5 he and Winston gave up all interest in hiring Powell, now 57, who had gotten in touch with Winston early this year.

The questioning of Muss came as the committee planned to study the operations of a group of Swiss investors who reportedly profited from U.S. government - insured housing construction.

Committee sources said the Swiss businessmen reaped about half a reported over-all profit of more than a million dollars on the Billy Mitchell Village project in San Antonio, Tex., and a second project in New York.

Last week the committee heard that a group of British stockholders in a New York corporation took more than $400,000 of "windfall" profits from construction of Oakland Gardens in Bayside, Long Island.

The committee has described as a "windfall" the profit resulting when promoters obtain government-insured loans exceeding their actual costs and pocket the difference.

MPS Hears Smithton Water Feud

Bremer Denies Turning Off Water, Blames Machinery Breakdown July 8

JEFFERSON CITY — The battle of hot and dry Smithton, Mo., for water service was carried to the air conditioned comfort of the Missouri Public Service Commission's hearing room today.

Some of the uncomfortable customers of Smithton Water Co. said it looked like more than a coincidence that the water was shut off on the same day, July 8, that the voters in the little fourth class city approved a $60,000 bond issue for a municipal water plant. The vote was 153-6.

Stanley E. Bremer, owner of the water company because he is "public spirited," said old and worn machinery just gave out that day when the temperature in Smithton was 110 and the demand for water was more than the equipment could bear.

Bremer told the commission he had "no intention or desire to become engaged in the operation of a utility, but solely and only as a public spirited citizen in the community, (he) consented 'from time to time' to permit customers to hook onto the system."

The water "company" just grew, he said. He drilled the deep well back in the mid-30's to provide water for his creamery. Then he said a main to his home three blocks away. He allowed folks to hook onto the system if they paid the cost of the connecting pipe and labor. Then he charged them $1.50 a month.

Additions to the system, he said, were allowed "solely in the public interest and as a matter of neighborly good will."

Buel B. Ihrig, former school superintendent in Smithton and now the little town's mayor, had a somewhat different version.

He said Bremer agreed to provide water for the school but only if the school dismantled its own water pumping system.

The mayor said he didn't think Bremer ever had charged the city for rental of fire hydrants but he has been the chief officer of the town, population 342, for only a few months so he couldn't be sure.

He said he saw Bremer go to the well house several times the morning that the water system quit. Bremer said he was having a time keeping the old equipment going, but he finally decided it was working all right so he went home.

Dr. P. V. Siegel, who operates a clinic in Smithton, said the water just stopped about 10:30 in the morning, July 8. He told the commission that friends brought water to the clinic in buckets and cream cans throughout the rest of that day and the next.

The evening of July 9 the water "went on again" and it's been available ever since.

Bremer said he worked hard July 9 and finally got the rig going.

He said if the commission decides he really is operating a public utility he'll try to abide by the rules. But he doesn't believe he can be called a utility.

He said it looked to him like someone had tampered with the well pumps during the night of July 8.

Dr. Siegel said he received a telephone call just before midnight July 8. Someone he couldn't identify told him the water was on again. So the doctor said he hustled down to his clinic and "flushed the toilet" and filled some buckets with water so everything would be in shape for the next day.

Then, apparently, things went blooey again before dawn.

Meanwhile, the city has $60,000 to invest in a water plant. But the citizens want Bremer to keep right on providing water from his well until the switchover.

Senators Notify The Democrat Of The Air Force Decision

Construction of All Facilities Will Be On More Permanent Standards and Personnel Is Expected to Be Increased by 4,000 Men

The Sedalia Air Force Base has been placed on a "permanent" status, according to information received early today by the Democrat-Capitol from United States Senators Thomas C. Hennings Jr., and Stuart Symington.

First news on the making of the base a permanent installation was received from the office of Senator Hennings, from Scott Wilson, his secretary. Wilson notified the newspapers of the decision of the Air Force and read the following letter Senator Hennings had received.

"This letter is to inform you of the Air Force activities within your state.

"Having met the established criteria for permanent installations, I am pleased to inform you that the Sedalia Air Force Base has been designated as a permanent air force installation. It is a pleasure to furnish you this information.

"Sincerely yours,
"Ed. H. Wilson Jr., for Joseph W. Kelly, Brig. Gen. U.S.A.F. Director of Legislative Liaison"

On 25 Year Basis
Senator Symington, in his release on the change in status of the SAFB said it was pointed out that "as a result, construction of all facilities, including housing, will be on a more permanent standard than that at temporary bases. Construction at permanent bases, it was explained, is designated to last for at least 25 years.

"Plans call for an increase of 4,000 personnel at the base by the end of the year," Symington's office said.

"It also was brought out the communities and the government will be able to do more toward providing necessary housing in the area now that the base is being given a permanent status," Symington's aides said.

The base was reactivated in August, 1951, when 1st Lieut. Innocenzo Vento came to Sedalia as the first commanding officer. He was the only Air Force personnel on the base until October, when Lt. Col. Leonard Flo arrived. Lt. Vento was later promoted to captain after going to Scott Field, Ill.

Reyer Well Pleased
Lt. Col. Reyer came to Sedalia and took over the command of the base from Lt. Col. Flo, who was transferred to Alaska. Col. Reyer is still the commanding officer of the base.

"We are very happy to learn Sedalia has been placed on a permanent status," Col. Reyer said after learning of the new status of the base.

Col. A. J. Beck, commander of the 340th Bomb Wing (M), upon learning of the change said, "I am mighty happy to see such action taken, especially since it is located in such a mighty fine community."

Col. Beck said he was unable to say anything about any increase in personnel at this time, as that is in the "discussion stage."

Boul Optimistic
Claude Boul, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, received a message from Senator Symington and remarked, "We

Crossroads Comment
... by G.H.S.

One of the injustices of the New Deal legislators, who provided legal means for windfall profits under FHA, was their failure to legalize "lugs on the boss." This oversight resulted in several St. Louis labor leaders being put in a tough spot this week. They got 12 years and more for extortion.

In certain Antarctic regions, the winds average 30 miles an hour the year round. Some Sedalia windbags you know have got that average beat at least 25 miles.

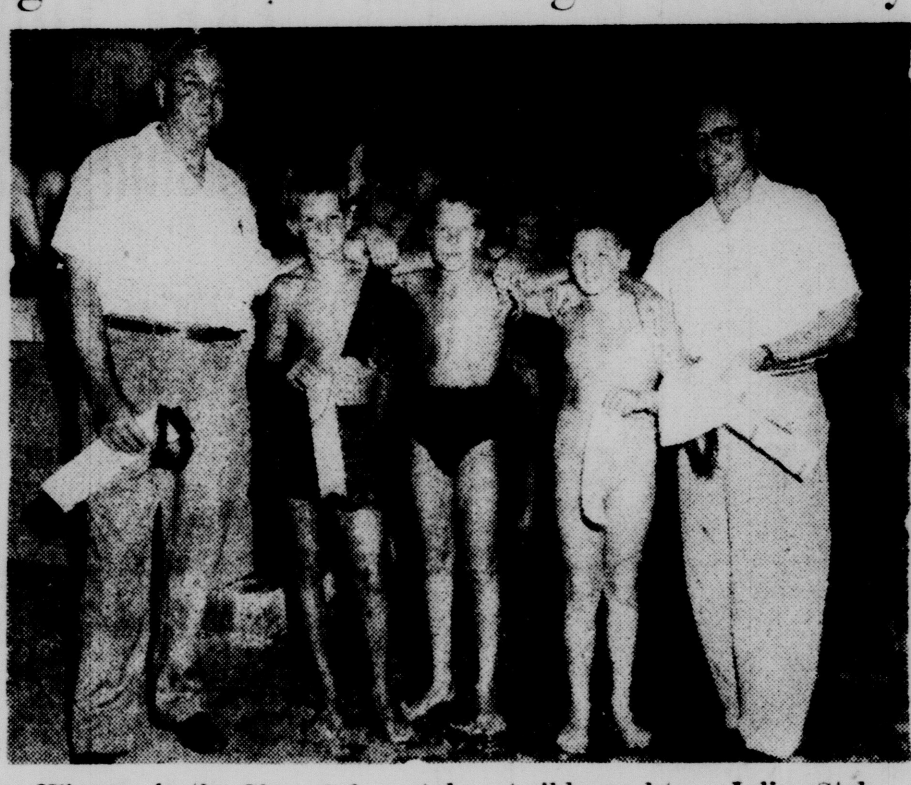

I recently mentioned seeing familiar faces at the ape house in the St. Louis zoo but forgot to mention about seeing the camels. The camel is a shaggy, awkward, stiff-legged, goose-necked, hump-backed beast, has a split upper lip, poptoes, loosely hung jaws, and a stupid, sad expression on its too-small face. I'm just trying to think where and when I saw that character in Sedalia.

The tongue of the chameleon is twice as long as its body — about the same length as the tongues of some local gossip.

Heat Waves Causing Lull For Business

NEW YORK (P)—Heat waves rolling across the nation find industry today in the middle of a summer lull—but with confidence teamed with caution to set the foundation for what could be a slow and sound buildup when cool weather comes.

Many factories are closed for summer vacations. Others are closing for annual inventories. Torrid weather keeps customers away from stores in many cities. The summer breather—or the search for some cool air to breathe—is evident in many lines of industry and trade.

Businessmen are taking it calmly. They expect a pickup in a month or so. And from now on they'll have the advantage of better looking statistics to bolster confidence.

So far this year the business statistics have been compared on a year-ago basis with record-setting periods in 1952. But the trade downturn started a year ago, so that from now on any gains in industry and trade will look even better as they are compared with declining figures of last fall and winter.

Confidence teamed with caution has been the hallmark of the year-long recession. It has distinguished it from other recessions.

Confidence and caution might look like strange teammates at first glance, but they work well together.

Business wariness kept inventories from going too high during the boom. Prudence caused businessmen to hold down inventories when trade slackened with the end of the Korean fighting.

But trust in the essential soundness of the nation's business and particularly in the generally bright prospects for the future kept manufacturers from cutting back too sharply either on production or on plans for expansion and modernization to be ready for the pickup so many of them expect.

Without this confidence—and without the caution that kept confidence from turning into runaway speculation—the adjustment of business to a peacetime economy could have been sharp. It could have developed its own chain reaction and exploded into a really painful business setback.

Businessmen apparently are using the same combination of caution and confidence in approaching the fall prospects. Most of the manufacturers and merchants appear to expect better production and better sales figures this fall. But they aren't rushing to build up inventories in expectation of a boom.

Fears of a real depression which began to crop up about this time last year and flowered into full debate before the year's end have been set aside now by almost everyone.

Pope Urges All Catholics Attack Moral Immaturity

VATICAN CITY (P)—Pope Pius XII urged Catholics today to attack moral immaturity that he said is leading to civic crises.

The pontiff's plea was contained in a letter to Charles Flory, president of a French social study organization which is meeting at Rennes.

Quoting from his own past speeches, the Pope said aspects of the current lack of moral maturity include indifference in public affairs, tax evasion, sterile criticism of authority and defense of privilege damaging to general interests.

"In the necessary reaction against this state of things, the Catholic must give the example," the pontiff wrote.

He said lack of civic virtue in individuals "soon becomes collective."

"And, perhaps the most grave aspect of the crisis you are analyzing," he told Flory, "is the establishment of powerful and active groups of special interest—whether they be unions of employers of workers, economic trust or professional and social groups."

These organizations, wrote the Pope, have acquired power that enables them to weigh upon the government and upon the lives of nations.

"It is necessary," he declared, "that the judicial order again be bound to the moral order."

Father Is Away, But Daughter Has Her Party

LONDON (P)—A mining magnate was "at home" in absentia last night in a London theater, launching his 18-year-old debutante daughter at the British capital's most lavish party of the season. The bill came to $28,000.

The debutante was Barbara Smith, only daughter of Australian-born Stanley Smith, Papa, whose mines are in Malaya, was on a business trip to Tokyo and couldn't be present. Barbara's mother is dead so Lady Hardwicke helped look after the 600 guests.

For the party a decorator converted the 2,600-seat Stoll theater into a lavishly decorated Edwardian ballroom. There was new blue ceiling, a parquet dance floor, garlands of silver, a rose garden, 1,000 gladioli and lily plants, and jeroobams—gallon size—of pink and white champagne.

The guest list, which jammed traffic for blocks, included Marlene Dietrich, the Marquis of Milford Haven, Douglas Fairbanks and such past and present escorts of Princess Margaret as the Marquis of Blandford and Billy Wallace.

Barbara said she didn't know some of her 600 guests but "some of the people I asked said they had house guests so we had to ask them too."

Radiantly pretty in patterned pink net with jewels, the debutante told newsmen she's going to start studying archeology at London University in the fall.

Two Accidents Due to Animals

Wandering farm animals caused two accidents in Johnson County over the weekend.

A young steer ran into the side of a tractor-trailer at 3:40 o'clock Monday morning, 6 of a mile east of Highway 58 on Highway 50, smashing the right front fender of the tractor. James L. Bennett, Sedalia, driver of the truck, was traveling east when the accident occurred, according to State Trooper S. S. Abney, investigating officer.

A horse ran into the side of a car driven by James R. Wade of Holden on Highway 58 near the Cass County line at 12:05 o'clock Friday morning. The horse belonged to Perry Bay of Kingsville, according to Abney. The right side of Wade's car was extensively damaged and the horse appeared to have a slight limp, Abney said.

At 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, a car driven east by James Willis Lucas, Sedalia Air Force Base, ran off the road near the entrance to the Knob Noster State Park, knocking down several guard rail post on the approach to a bridge, and fell upside down into a creek. Lucas said he had fallen asleep, according to Abney. Lucas and a passenger, Gene C. Butts, SAFB, were treated for minor injuries at Warrensburg Medical Center and released. The car was demolished.

A summons to appear in Johnson County magistrate court was issued to Lucas.

US Prestige In Viet Nam Hits Bottom

SAIGON, Indochina (AP) — American prestige in Viet Nam, largest of the states of Indochina, appears to have hit its lowest ebb since World War II.

Until a few days ago, the United States could still count on the friendship of some element of the population—anti-Communist Vietnamese in the North and the Nationalist government of Catholic leader Ngo Dinh Diem.

But reports from Washington that President Eisenhower's administration now accepts the principle of partition of the country seem to have wiped away much of this good will.

In the closing days of the Geneva conference and on the verge of a possible cease-fire in the long and exhausting war, the United States stands discredited in the eyes of many elements of the population.

It was to have this population from communism that the United States contributed billions to the Indochina war effort against the Vietminh and substantial civilian aid now being directed to help the hapless refugees of evacuated areas in the North. The general feeling in Viet Nam now appears to be that the United States didn't do enough, and much of what it did wasn't even right.

The aid program, for example, is a major cause of dissatisfaction among Vietnamese nationalists.

"Instead of giving us aid money and material through the French, why doesn't the United States turn it over directly to us?" one prominent Vietnamese asked recently.

"In this way Viet Nam would be able to stand on her own feet, feel herself really independent, and the impression that the United States is siding with France in an attempt to keep us under her control would be eliminated."

Yet, there is nothing like open hostility toward Americans here, except in a few isolated cases. Many Vietnamese nationalists still look upon Americans as possible friends and hope for direct aid when the French are gone.

Much resentment, among both French and Vietnamese, stems from widely published reports of American concern that the aid she has given might fall into the hands of the Communist-led Vietminh.

"Of course we sympathize with this attitude," a Vietnamese official explained. "But to stress it at this time hardly is in good taste. Many of my people, unjustly or not, feel the United States is acting like a man whose house is afire and is more concerned with the future than his family inside."

The policy reason for the decline in the American position here, as summarized by Frenchmen and their Vietnamese allies, is the apparent lack of clear and consistent U.S. policy, and Washington's uncertainty in dealing with the Indochina situation. Vietnamese, who don't know the intricacies of American party politics, are repeatedly confused by conflicting statements coming from leaders in the United States.

From Hanoi in the North, Associated Press Correspondent Forrest Edwards reports:

"Americans are regarded with bitterness and disappointment by many Frenchmen. A French soldier told me bitterly, 'We are shedding our blood for your war.' That was a reference to the American contention that this is a war against communism."

City Council

(Continued from Page One) and on West Fifth from Warren to Beacon; one for paving with cold mix, 2 1/2 inches deep after compaction, on Benton from Missouri to Kentucky; and four for paving with hot mix, 2 1/2 inches deep after compaction, on the streets originally included among the 11 to be resurfaced and for which there were no remonstrances. They are: Sixth, Lamine to Harrison; Second, Lamine to Missouri; Lamine, south property line of the MKT to Broadway; and Osage, south property line of MKT to Broadway.

Other Business

The council adopted a resolution to establish the grade and pave with a rock base four inches deep after compaction, priming and sealcoat South Sneed from Broadway to 14th, at a cost to the adjacent property owners not to exceed $1.25 per linear foot.

A 3 1/2 inch license was approved for the Grill Cafe, 111 South Ohio, requested by Leslie Webb.

A resolution was adopted to establish the grade for curb and gutter construction on West 11th, from Limit to State Fair Blvd.

Councilman Kelley introduced a request by the Cumberland Presbyterian Church to erect a sign on the southwest corner of Harrison and 16th and added that the owner of the property on which the sign would be erected had no objection. Request was granted.

Kelley also referred to the police, gas and lights committee requests for street lights at 19th and Montauk and at 20th and Osage. To this Councilman John Carroll added a request for a street light at Fifth and Esauon.

Councilman Garrison asked for the council's approval of the city engineer's specifications on the cold mix to be used on the Benton Street project.

His street and alley committee was given the council's permission to purchase necessary materials for the re-surfacing program.

Councilman Aubrey Case reported that residents near 14th and Osage wanted to erect warning signs about the bad dip in the intersection. Garrison announced that the signs had already been set up there.

Case then submitted a petition for a sewer district from 24th and Ohio west to 24th and Kentucky. The matter was referred to the sewer and sanitation committee, and a report will be made at the next meeting.

After hearing the traffic engineer's report, the last item of business on the agenda, the council adjourned. It will meet again on August 2.

Accuse National GOP of Meddling In State Primary

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — W. F. Davis Gebhart, Republican candidate for the 6th District congressional nomination, accused the National GOP organization today of meddling in the Missouri primary.

Gebhart protested in a telegram to GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall that the Republican National Committee "is participating through a congressional campaign committee in primary elections for nominating congressmen by printing propaganda material favoring certain candidates."

At the same time, Gebhart said, the committee is "supplying funds and speakers to assist these candidates in their appearances before the public."

Gebhart wired Hall that such procedure is "contrary to American political heritage" and he added, was "certainly not being appreciated in this 6th District of Missouri where Republicans have always felt they are qualified to nominate their congressional candidates without outside assistance or propaganda."

In a statement accompanying release of the telegram today, Gebhart explained he was referring to the "recent junket" of Reps. Cole, Short, and Halleck "who campaigned in the 6th and 7th Missouri districts by private airplane and where Mr. Cole and Mr. Short have tough opposition this year."

Short and Halleck addressed a GOP rally in behalf of Rep. Cole in St. Joseph, Gebhart said, and "no speeches on behalf of other candidates were permitted."

Woman Stabs Husband To Death: Found Him With Another Woman

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—An expectant mother stabbed her husband to death early today after finding him in bed with another woman, police said.

Detective Fred Whisler said Clarence White, 28, Indianapolis, was found dead in an alley a block from the stabbing scene. He had a half-inch wound from a paring knife over his heart.

His wife, Norma, who expects their third child in October, stood over the body, police said. The officers, arriving at the scene, stopped a 21-year-old woman who was running from the alley carrying her shoes.

Whisler said Mrs. White pointed out the woman as the one she had found in bed with her husband a few minutes earlier in a vacant apartment.

The detective said Mrs. White said her husband on the bed, White ran outside and down the alley but collapsed a block away. Both women followed.

Farm Bureau Holds Soil Testing Meetings

A series of night meetings of the Pettis County Farm Bureau on an improved method of interpreting soil tests are being held this week.

A colored motion picture, "Making the Most of a Miracle," will be shown and refreshments will be served.

There has already been a meeting at Longwood on Monday night. Tonight a meeting will be held at 8 p. m. at the Smithton High School. Other meetings this week, all beginning at 8 p. m., will be held at Houstonia High School on Wednesday, Green Ridge High School on Thursday, and at the Fifth Street Methodist Church in Sedalia on Friday.

Ice Company Operates Over Capacity to Provide Needs

Business is good for the ice man but Jack Cunningham, owner of the Sedalia Ice Company, has his fingers crossed that everything keeps rolling as long as the hot weather lasts. He is manufacturing 67 1/2 tons of ice a day, which is 7 1/2 tons more than the normal capacity of the plant and that can't keep up for ever.

If this terrific heat continues, the plant just isn't going to hold out at the excessive production rate that has been going on the entire month of July, he says.

Should this weather keep up another 20 days, says Jack, the plant is bound to break down somewhere. Well, another 20 days like these and most of us won't be left to care.

Back in 1947 ice was rationed. People could only get 25 pounds at a time and had to stand in line to get that. Some people would go through the line, get their 25 pounds and then come back and go through the line again.

But there is no rationing this time and there won't be as long as the plant holds out and Jack can get the 20 tons extra that he has been getting. He is manufacturing 67 1/2 tons daily and is selling 19-20 tons a day, bringing in the extra 20 tons to meet the demand.

He has contracted for outside ice to carry through August, too. He is getting all he can from Clinton and is bringing ice in from Jefferson City. Independence, where he was also getting ice, cut him off. There was a shortage of water and they evidently needed all they had.

The Sedalia Ice Company is the only one in this territory and has absorbed all the smaller ice plants that have gone out of business.

His trucks are going as fast as they can, says Cunningham, making two deliveries a day, but he certainly does appreciate the business houses who try to make one delivery. Cooperation in this hot weather, when his men are working as hard as they can to keep everybody supplied, means a great deal.

More ice was sold the first 16 days of July, said Jack, than has ever been sold in a like period in Sedalia before and he is trying to do a good job.

Some buy huge cakes and put them down by the furnace to try to circulate the coolness through the house. Others buy cakes of ice and put them in big pans in front of electric fans. They are trying everything with ice to get things cooled off around them.

Divorced Wife Of Lack Sues Doctor Small

DETROIT (AP)—A quarter-million-dollar damage suit against Dr. Kenneth B. Small has been filed by the divorced wife of the man he killed, Jules M. Lack, New York businessman.

Only last Saturday, the 31-year-old Detroit dentist was found innocent by reason of insanity in the May 29 pistol slaying of Lack, his pretty wife's suitor.

The suit, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court yesterday, asks damages of $250,000 in reparation for the lost potential earnings of the shooting victim and as compensation for the "pain and suffering" of Lack's two sons, John, 9, and Andrew, 7. It was brought by Mrs. Jean A. Lack of New York, ex-wife of the late industrialist, and David C. Lewis.

Mrs. Lack and Lewis are co-administrators of Lack's estate. Lack, 45, was shot to death by the handsome society dentist during a Memorial Day weekend rendezvous with dark-eyed Mrs. Edith Small in southwestern Michigan. Still in jail at Allegan, where the trial was held, Dr. Small said: "Seems to me that after the ruling of the jury they couldn't sue an insane man. Where would I get that kind of money? It sounds like baloney to me."

Allegan Atty. Leo Hoffman, who successfully defended Dr. Small, said the plaintiffs would have a tough time trying to make a case. "They must prove that the trial verdict was wrong and that Dr. Small was not insane when he shot Lack," the attorney said.

Paroled Convict Fails To Pay Parking Meter, Is Nabbed for Robbery

DENVER (AP)—A paroled convict's failure to put a nickel in a parking meter led to his arrest here yesterday after a $9,858 bank robbery. Taken into custody an hour later as he stopped for a beer and charged with the holdup was Otto A. Atterson, 24, of Denver. He was accused of taking the money at gunpoint from the Metropolitan State Bank in Derby, a North Denver suburb.

Officers said all but $7 was recovered from Atterson's car, parked outside a tavern. A motorcycle Patrolman heard a broadcast description of the bank bandit's getaway car, recalled ticketing it for overtime parking and the arrest followed. FBI Agent Joseph Schmit said Atterson admitted the holdup.

THE OLD WORKING WITH THE NEW—This 26-year-old threshing machine, still in use on farm in a rural community near Dodge City, Kans., for threshing of bundle wheat, oats and barley, is combined with modern machinery to separate grain and straw so that the straw will be available for bedding for dairy barns. Tractors are used to pull the wagons hauling the bundles instead of horses and the grain is hauled away from the old-fashioned threshing machine by a truck instead of a wagon. (NEA Telephoto)

Voters Start to Polls In Montana Primary

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—An estimated 170,000 voters start to the polls today after one of the quietest primary elections campaigns in Montana history.

Campaigning was so quiet that incumbent James Murray of Butte did not bother to return from Washington to contest the two candidates opposing him for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

Opponents of the 78-year-old Democrat, seeking his fourth full term, are Sam G. Fessell of Great Falls and Ray Gulick, Joplin, Mo., farmer.

On the Republican ballot, Rep. Wesley A. D'Ewart is stepping out of his House seat to seek the senatorial nomination. He is opposed by Robert Yellowtail, a Crow Indian leader from Lodge Grass.

Three Democrats and four Republicans seek party nominations for the 2nd Congressional District seat being vacated by D'Ewart.

Dallas Police Seek Motive In Murder

DALLAS (AP)—Police today still sought a motive for the murder of a father and the attempted murder of his wife and daughter as they slept outdoors to escape searing Dallas heat.

A 22-year-old suspect was held but not charged immediately. He was picked up hours later from descriptions of his wife and daughter.

Killed was Durward G. Bursby, 36, a city bus driver. His wife, Annie, 31, was shot twice in the chest. The slayer attempted to shoot Patricia Ann, 11, but the pistol misfired twice.

The Bursbys had moved a mattress on to the back lawn Sunday night and Patricia Ann was sleeping on a pallet near her parents.

About 1:10 a.m., the girl was awakened by a man stooping over her. He seized her by the throat. Her screams awakened her father.

The slayer shot him twice in the chest. The mother then was shot twice and some bullets apparently went wild. The man attempted to shoot the girl, but fled when his pistol failed to fire.

Bursby's wallet, containing between $3 or $4 dollars, was missing. He had left it inside the house.

Irregularities Are Uncovered In Kansas Bank

VALLEY CENTER, Kan. (AP)—Merchants and others in this community of 1,100 were stunned yesterday when they went to their town's only bank and found it closed. Bank Commissioner Elmer T. Beck said bank losses would exceed $310,000.

The doors of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank were closed following a week's investigation by state bank examiners. Depositors had no hint that anything was wrong. Beck said John W. Basore, the bank's president, had admitted irregularities and had promptly resigned.

After announcing the probable loss, Beck said he would have no further comment until his report is complete. Some merchants were caught with Saturday and Sunday receipts.

Merry-Go-Round
France Promises To Join EDC In Return for Indo-China Support

By Drew Pearson
WASHINGTON—U.S. policy regarding Indo-China has flip-flopped almost as rapidly as John Foster Dulles has shuttlecocked across the Atlantic. However, out of these trans-Atlantic trips and the latest Dulles report to President Eisenhower the following policy seems in vogue.

To some extent, we are back in somewhat the same position regarding Indo-China as last April when Vice President - Nixon warned that we might have to send American troops to Indo-China.

Reason is that we have now made a definite commitment to back up France in the Indo-China war if the Reds keep on fighting. Though we have talked about this in the past we have never made such a commitment before.

What happened was that Premier Mendes-France told Dulles that if the United States wanted a stiff no-surrender policy in Indo-China we would have to share the responsibility. Dulles agreed. He also agreed to a line partitioning Indo-China. But most important of all he agreed to back France all-out if the Reds don't accept a reasonable line.

Simultaneously, Dulles became convinced that Mendes-France was a sincere patriot, was trying to salvage stability from the political instability of France. Finally, Dulles got an extremely important pledge from the French premier—namely, that France would join the United European Army.

All this did not take place, however, without some unpleasant moments, and until after Mendes-France had issued one of the bluntest threats ever served on a recent American Secretary of State.

The French premier issued a virtual ultimatum that either Dulles would come back to the Geneva conference or France would pull out of the North Atlantic pact and adopt a neutralist attitude in Europe. U.S. Ambassador Douglas Dillon, who conveyed the French warning, told Dulles that Mendes-France was not bluffing, that he had better make the trip.

That was why, the Secretary of State packed his baggage and caught a plane to Paris in three hours, later sending his Undersecretary of State, Bedell Smith, to Geneva.

Senate Inventor
Sen. Ralph Flanders of Vermont was visited by many of his Republican colleagues last week who pleaded with him not to put the Republican party on the spot by a vote on McCarthy.

Among those who called on him were Senators Saitonstall of Massachusetts, Ives of New York, and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. The Vermontor, who has spent all his life as an engineer-industrialist, remained adamant. He even outlined to senators the speech he planned to make and told them that he was thinking of releasing the speech 24 hours in advance so newspapers could publish it in advance of delivery. His idea, he explained, was so that senators could read his speech before the debate opened and would have a chance to understand it.

"That's a unique idea," exclaimed Senator Smith of Maine. "Why do you do that?" "Well, I am an inventor," replied Flanders. "I have 29 patents. And I see no reason why something new should not be invented for the Senate."

McCarthy Merry-Go-Round

Believe it or not, but McCarthy has suddenly become camera-shy. After years of hugging the klieg lights, he now goes out the back door to avoid TV cameramen. . . . This is because publicity advisers have warned Joe that his personality came over badly on TV, that he had better keep out of the limelight for the time being. . . . The man who worked hardest to roll up a solid GOP front against consideration of the Flanders anti-McCarthy resolution was Michigan's shaggy Homer Ferguson. Homer had announced publicly that he didn't want McCarthy to come to Michigan to campaign for him; thus he would be in a bad position if he now voted for McCarthy. That was one reason he told Flanders: "If you insist on bringing up your motion I'll have to vote with you, but please don't bring it up." . . . Under the no-debate rule which Ferguson and the GOP policy committee have now endorsed, the Flanders motion will merely be tabled—without debate. That was why the senator from Vermont changed his motion to remove McCarthy as chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee and substituted a motion of censure. . . . It was only a few weeks ago that Majority Leader Knowland made a speech proposing the right to remove Senate committee chairmen when they didn't cooperate. His speech was then aimed at Langer of North Dakota. Now that a resolution is on the Senate floor to remove McCarthy as chairman, Knowland has changed his mind.

Latin Yanqui

Twenty-two years ago a South American ex-President arrived in New York, penniless, an exile from his country. He was Carlos Davila, who, after serving four years as ambassador in Washington, had taken over the presidency of Chile, finally was ousted. Unlike many Latin-American presidents, he left with no "nest eggs," no secret funds in a foreign bank. He had run a strictly honest administration and left Chile with only the clothes he had on.

Davila settled in New York and made a living at his original profession—journalism. He became one of the great interpreters of the United States to Latin America, pointed out that crime news did not properly represent the USA, that we had idealism, culture, music, opera, literature.

Only three of four times during his two decades in the United States did Davila return to his native Chile. Once, when his wife, dying of cancer, wanted to return, President Roosevelt put a flying fortress at Davila's disposal. And his wife arrived just in time for one last breath of Chilean air.

Now married to an American, Francis Adams of Virginia, Davila has sometimes suffered because in Latin America he is considered a "Latin Yanqui." And the state department in turn thinks he's too independent.

But after a year in Chile as editor of La Nacion, Davila came back to Washington last year to become secretary general of the office of the American republics. This can be one of the most important jobs in the Western hemisphere—the job of welding the Americas closer together. Under Davila's direction it should go forward with vigor.

There Is No Positive Test You
Can Use On Wild Mushrooms

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Every year a good many people roam the fields and woods collecting mushrooms which they cook and eat.

This is a dangerous practice as there is no way to distinguish between the edible mushrooms and the several poisonous kinds. Even experts often have difficulties.

The superstition that a silver coin will become tarnished from the poisonous varieties if it is put in the dish in which the mushrooms are being cooked is wholly false.

Also the taste is not reliable, as most of the poisonous species are supposed to have an agreeable flavor.

In the United States most cases of poisoning are caused by mushrooms of the amanita family, the best known variety of which is sometimes called the "death angel."

The poison from the "death angel," or amanita phalloides, is technically known as a toxin. About six to 18 hours after eating this dangerous mushroom the symptoms begin to appear. They usually consist of nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and severe abdominal pains. There may be great thirst, inability to urinate, dizziness, jaundice after two or three days, and unconsciousness.

More than half of those who are stricken usually die, this generally occurring five to eight days after eating the mushrooms.

There is no good treatment for mushroom poisoning of this kind, although if the stomach can be washed out early most of the toxin is removed and the chances of recovery are better.

Another type of poisonous mushroom is called amanita muscaria, or the "fry amanita."

Here the poison is of a different type and is related to a drug commonly used in medicine, called pilocarpine.

In this type the symptoms appear early, usually within three hours of eating the mushrooms, and when death occurs it is usually within 24 hours.

In addition to the symptoms of vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal pain, there is also sweating, tearing of the eyes, narrowing of the pupils of the eyes, slow pulse and in fatal cases, convulsions and unconsciousness.

This variety, if identified early enough, can be efficiently treated with atropine. In such properly treated cases about one in ten succumbs.

It seems quite unnecessary to pick mushrooms in the woods and run this great risk when safe ones can be so easily bought.

Even experts have been caught by failure to tell whether certain mushrooms were one of the edible varieties or were poisonous.

The safe thing to do is to eat only those mushrooms which have been passed by competent or official inspection.

The Making of a Tycoon

By Bruce Blossat

If you're not already a top executive and you want to be, or you want your son to be, you'll be interested in the results of a study made of 33 high-ranking businessmen in Chicago. They tend to overturn some cherished notions.

The old idea that business leaders generally rise from humble beginnings isn't borne out by a check of these executives' backgrounds. The psychologist who interviewed the men found many had solid, upper middle-class upbringing, with happy family relations.

The study, by Dr. Robert M. Wald, also indicated that for the most part it's better to be raised in a big city than on the farm or in a small town, if you seek the top. Exceptions, of course.

As for the personality traits and habits, a number of things stood out:

Almost without exception, these successful men were completely wrapped up in their jobs and their organizations. They got most pleasure from work.

They were highly skilled in getting along with other people, using tact and showing consideration and poise in their dealings.

The 33 possessed extraordinary intelligence, particularly the knack of analyzing facts. On the whole they surpassed 96 per cent of the population in intelligence. The testers were surprised at this towering superiority.

Generally these fellows weren't afraid to make decisions when they had to be made; they were normally calm and when provoked, kept their annoyance under some check; they tended to be conservative; they were frank in appraising their own assets and liabilities, and they exhibited high standards of tolerance for the performance and viewpoint of other people.

Apparently their chief weakness was that in self-confidence and emotional stability they were merely average. This might seem hard to believe for men who had achieved success and were governed by the search for it. But the psychologist observed that executive responsibility by its nature stirs anxiety in men.

The findings showed further that many were almost driven to success by the fear of failure. They kept on pressing upward because they dared not stop.

Obviously, not too many of us can aspire to real eminence in the business world. We haven't enough of the required ingredients, though some of us may cover certain shortcomings by a tremendous effort of will.

The rest will have to be content either with success in other fields, or with the fact that more modest accomplishment may give them time to live more varied and leisurely lives than their hard-driving friends pushing to the top.

With full respect to those who have the stuff to go all the way, we'd like to suggest that life short of the top can be pretty wonderful, too.

The thousands of shooting stars which hit the earth's atmosphere each hour are providing a new "radio roof" for the world. This roof makes possible reliable short-wave transmission over distances up to a thousand miles 24 hours a day without interruption due to atmospheric conditions at high altitudes.

The World Today—
Sen. Flanders Needs a Team

(By James Marlow)

WASHINGTON #—When he bats against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in the Senate league, Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) needs a team and a scorecard. There's no sign he has a team. And he's learning the score the hard way.

He has swung twice and missed. There's a good chance he'll strike out.

Persistence may be all the two senators have in common. They've used it on each other. The 73-year-old Vermont Republican persists in trying to get the Senate to rebuke McCarthy some way, somehow.

McCarthy persistently ignores Flanders, paying no more attention to him than he'd pay to a gnat. He dismisses Flanders, his most outspoken Senate critic, with the word "senile."

For months Flanders has been after McCarthy with Senate speeches and television statements that got headlines. For all their effect on the Senate it was like a batter warming up with poppies.

But Flanders apparently felt ready for the big try. He asked the Senate to vote McCarthy out of his committee chairmanships, which would be a shattering rebuke.

Flanders had stepped into one of the most sensitive areas of the Senate. All its members yearn to be committee chairmen, a job that comes to them not by brilliance or ability but by seniority; by sticking around long enough.

Stators, being politicians, have a heightened sense of survival. Once they started something like this in motion—taking a senator's chairmanship away—it might happen to them someday.

Besides, there were other considerations. In this election year 37 of the 96 Senate seats are at stake. McCarthy has a host of friends, well-wishers and admirers who might

BUT to get back to Betty Jane. As I started to say, the Marmon had spoiled her for her folks' sofa, so the next time Milo came in to the supermarket I had it out with him. Instead of wearing his black waiter's pants and turtle-neck sweater, he was in a blue suit with white stripes running up and down, and a collar and a red tie. The suit wasn't the color of blue that I would have picked out and the tie was an even brighter red than the Marmon, if that was possible, but what looked really funny was the collar, because of Milo's neck being so much bigger than his head. Besides, he was sweating just the same as always and the collar didn't absorb the way the sweater did.

"Milo get new suit," he says. "Fed like?"

"That Dawn dame is ruining Greece's gift to America," I said, making it as sarcastic as I could, while I put my apples and bananas in bags and marked the price on them. One thing, the supermarket had just put in new scales and had started to sell everything by the pound, so I was saved a lot of headaches figuring out what things cost.

Milo looked awful sad. "Is true, Fed. Last night Herman almost thow Milo. No can help. Milo in love terrible."

"You mean you weren't using the Marmon last night?" I asked, thinking of the lost opportunity.

"You not know, Fed? Milo no tell show go Baltimore? All mens in Baltimore see Dawn. Milo no see."

HE went on like this until I could see the manager getting impatient, as there were a lot of customers waiting, so I said, "What about the car?"

"No want car till Sat'day, Fed. Milo drive Baltimore see Dawn."

"Okay," I said, thinking that half a loaf was better than no car. "I'll see you at the Y."

The poor guy was practically crying, right there in the supermarket. "No, Fed, no can. Milo heart busted, me," he says.

That night we took a long drive in the country, and parked by some woods where we had stopped once or twice before. Finally I said, "Betty Jane, we've been wrestling for a long time now according to amateur rules. I think it's about time we turned professional."

"Why, Freddie," she says, her voice all choked up with feeling—she being one person I didn't mind calling me "Freddie"—"I do believe you are proposing marriage to me."

We had been having quite a long workout and I was warm from exertion, but suddenly Betty Jane Blane was as cool as a pickle. I was pretty nervous, wondering whether she'd say yes or no.

"Of course I am," I came right back. "This one fall to a finish and no time limit is wearing me out. I want to pin a hold on you that will last through infinity," which was sort of poetic, I thought.

"You must face some realities. You have wasted practically a year at that supermarket."

"You can say that again," I agreed. "There wasn't much I could do about it though, while I've been waiting for a bid somewhere."

"Freddie, I don't want to hurt your feelings, but there is just the trouble. You've been waiting for coaches to come to you and by this time you should realize that they're not going to. After this summer, there will be a whole new crop of star players to be bid for. Besides, I think

"Um-m-m-m," murmured Hackett.

"I think it's a good thing we fight so much over our work," said Frances. "That way we avoid the quarrels that other married people get mixed up in. We never fight 'at any other time, do we, Albert?"

"Oh, not much anyway," murmured her husband.

"Listen, Hackett," said Frances. "That three days I didn't speak to you—it was a quarrel about work. Remember? It's more interesting to fight about work than about whether you can afford a new dress."

"M-M-M-M," murmured Hackett.

In 1939 they both wearied of the writing strain and let their typewriters rust for three years.

"It was a lovely nervous breakdown," said Frances. "And we enjoyed it together. We just broke down at the typewriter and started crying, and neither of us could stop crying."

"In a relationship like ours," said Hackett, "if one partner gets between married people often end in black eyes and divorce suits. But 22 years of almost continuous verbal warfare have made Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich into one of Hollywood's most successful husband-and-wife marrying teams.

Their long wordy quarrel has resulted in several jointly written Broadway plays, 25 movie scripts, and an annual income in the high clear financial stratosphere somewhere above $50,000.

"But if we take time off to do a play, as we have this year, we sometimes don't earn a nickel," said Miss Goodrich.

Both started out as actors. They turned to writing during lean seasons. After their third play, "Up Pops the Devil," made the grade on Broadway, they went to Hollywood, married, and settled down with the M-G-M Studio.

We were in the doghouse for a long time," Miss Goodrich recalled. "It was easy to get lost out there then. The studio had 155 writers, and everybody was taking a fling at everybody else's script."

"Now they have only 30 writers, and they cast a writer almost as they do an actor for a part. They try to fit the writer to the kind of material he is best at."

Frances and Hackett hit pay-dirt first with "The Thin Man." Among other well known screenplays they fought out together are "A. Wilderness," "Father of the Bride," and their recently completed "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

For mutual safety many collaborating teams divide a script into acts, and the partners write alternate scenes. But the Hacketts believe fighting makes good writing. Each does the same scene, and then comes the nerve-wracking job of piecing them together.

"We fight, fight, fight—every line of the way," said Frances.

"And rewrite, rewrite, rewrite," murmured Hackett.

"We used to have separate rooms, but now we write together in the same room, and that's better," continued his wife. "We're closer in the clinches. We don't have so far to walk to fight, do we, Hackett?"

the whole system of college football is dishonest and bad for the morals." Mind, all this from Betty Jane, who up until this moment had never shown the first sign of a brain, unless maybe when she broke off with that tennis player.

She was right and I knew it, so I let it stand, but like all women, she had to add injury to insult, and went right on.

"Besides, there is this wrestling. Everybody knows wrestlers are a lot of bums whose matches are fixed. Look at that Milo!"

I tried not to act burned up. "What about him? Do you know that this very automobile in which you are sitting—"

"You didn't think I thought it was yours? On what you make at the supermarket? No, Fred Ansbach. When I look back to high-school days I think of cheering you in basketball or rooting for you at baseball or something. There must be plenty of basketball teams that pay their players honestly instead of pretending that they are amateurs when they're not—or aren't there?"

"THERE aren't, Betty Jane. Basketball is a strictly amateur sport in which if you are caught taking money honestly you are all washed up."

"Baseball, then?"

"Fellows that can play baseball better than me are a dime a dozen," I said, out of all modesty. "Besides, there's no dough in collegiate baseball. Whoever heard of 50,000 fans packing any stadium to watch Yale and Harvard play baseball?"

I was going on to explain that people don't like to pay out real money to watch something that doesn't have at least a fair chance of being crooked, but Betty Jane cut in on me. "Okay, I believe you. The way I see it, the only thing left is to go out and get yourself a job."

"You think I don't work at the supermarket?"

She passed that up. "Have you ever thought of going to college for an education and not for an athletic career?"

Now they pick the scripts they want, knock off often for long vacations abroad together to keep from getting into a writing rut.

"We do everything together," said Frances, smiling. "Poor Hackett. He never gets away from me. He never gets to take advantage of all the opportunities in Hollywood—and there are so many."

"UM-M-M-M-M-M!" murmured Hackett, a look of distance on his face.

Mrs. Thorne Will Testify Second Time

CHICAGO — The mother of Montgomery Ward Thorne will be recalled at his inquest to testify about her whereabouts on the day his body was found.

This was announced by Coroner Walter McCormack yesterday.

Meanwhile, stained bedding and other articles found in Thorne's room after his mysterious death June 19 were turned over to a team of four pathologists for examination and analysis.

Two housemaids, Elizabeth Lawson and Sheila de Leon, testified at the inquest that Mrs. Thorne went to nearby Lake Geneva, Wis., to attend a dog show at about noon on the day Thorne's body was found.

They said she returned when they notified her by telephone of her son's death.

The body of 20-year-old Thorne was found in his $75-a-month room about noon and doctors estimated he had died about 5 a.m.

Nine days before his death, Thorne, heir to a mail order fortune, revised his will leaving three-fourths of his estate to his sweetheart, Maureen Ragen, 18, and her mother Aileen.

His mother, who was sole beneficiary under an earlier will, was given only a one-eighth share.

The articles the pathologists will examine include a bed sheet, mattress pad, a handkerchief, a wad of cotton, part of a cigarette and a portion of what appeared to be a pill.

One of the pathologists, Dr. Otto Saphir, said the articles "may be very valuable evidence" in helping determine the cause of Thorne's death.

The inquest was continued to July 26.

Home of NAACP Leader Is Riddled By Guns

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex. — Shotguns and pistol blasts have ripped through the home of the Sulphur Springs chairman of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The shooting occurred early yesterday morning or late Monday night while Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ridge were away from home. Ridge has been active in demanding better school facilities for Negroes in the city.

Chief of Police Vaughn Deaton said the Ridge reported the shooting yesterday morning. "We have a description and license number of an out-of-town car that might have been involved, but we haven't been able to trace the owner yet," Deaton said.

Doesn't Find Enough Flies to Eradicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — The U. S. Bureau of Entomology here decided there aren't enough houseflies in downtown Orlando.

Not enough, that is, to justify an eradication campaign. Surveyors could find only 41 flies—and some of those might have been repeaters.

The bureau now plans to turn to the bottle fly, another pest.

Germans Still Debate Honor Of Attempt On Hitler's Life

BERLIN — Ten years ago today a Prussian nobleman, crippled by war wounds and disillusioned by Nazism, placed a briefcase against a pillar in Adolf Hitler's Rastenburg military headquarters.

Count Claus von Stauffenberg had worked hard to reach a position of confidence that made his "briefcase" visit possible.

No one noticed, when he left the headquarters in East Prussia, that he had left anything behind.

As he reached the outer barriers of the tightly guarded area, a giant explosion rocked the building and the walls of the Hitler hideout belched smoke, dust and flame.

The deadly bomb contained in the briefcase had gone off right on time.

But Hitler was only wounded in the left arm. He lived to compel Germany to struggle on another year with a war that already was lost.

Had the July 20 plot succeeded, a government headed by honorable anti-Nazi military men would have taken over Germany and sued for peace while the Allied nations were still outside its border.

A million lives would have been spared and the Soviet Union might not now be planted solidly in central Europe.

Despite this, in Germany today there is still argument whether the men who planned and executed the attempted assassination were heroes or traitors.

Aside from the physical danger involved in bucking the dictatorship, a moral principle was involved. All of them had at one time sworn the traditional military oath of fealty. In their secret councils they decided, however, that the Fuehrer had prostituted the oath by exacting it personally rather than directing it toward the interest of the fatherland.

The West German government has taken its stand definitely on the side of the band as patriots who thought of their nation first and their personal lives and liberty second.

But die-hard Nazis had sticklers for sworn oaths, regardless of the implications, still regard the attempted putsch as treasonable. History as it is being taught in the German schools does not pin down the decision either way. However, the textbooks cautiously point out that the 10 months of war that followed smashed the nation for many years to come.

The mainstays of the plot were senior officers trained for years to know when a battle is won or lost.

Eddie Phillips, Bleeding Victim, May Recover

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio — It began to look today as though 6-year-old Eddie Phillips, who has been bleeding since July 6, might live.

"His condition is still critical but it is no longer desperate," his doctor said last night.

Since the slender, tow-headed son of a Middletown automobile dealer had his tonsils taken out early this month, there has been some trouble in his blood stream.

Certain elements have been lacking and his blood hasn't been able to clot.

In an attempt to save his life, nearly 60 persons have given him their blood. The youngster has received more than 30 pints of whole blood plasma.

Until last night, there seemed little hope for the boy whose home in past weeks has been an oxygen tent and who has breathed through a tube in his throat and taken his meals intravenously.

Then the bleeding became almost negligible. His doctor said: "As far as I can see this has been the best day for the boy in almost a week."

"This is no dramatic turn. But his own body is fighting and is building up the elements necessary to coagulate the blood."

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Shirley Temple's 2-year-old son, Charles Alden Black Jr., has been reported definitely improved and in satisfactory condition at Santa Monica Hospital.

'Machine Gun' Kelly's Body Is Transported To Texas for Burial

DECATUR, Tex. — The body of Machine Gun Kelly, a key figure in one of the nation's most sensational kidnappings, rested here today awaiting burial near the scene of the crime.

Kelly — his real name was George — died Saturday in Leavenworth Prison. His body was brought here yesterday.

L. C. Christian, Decatur funeral director, said funeral arrangements still were incomplete. They will be made by R. G. (Boss) Shannon, Kelly's father-in-law and his partner in crime on whose farm the kidnap victim was held.

Shannon, Kelly and their wives were convicted for the kidnaping of Oklahoma oilman Charles F. Urschel. They held him on Shannon's farm and released him July 31, 1933, when the $200,000 ransom was paid.

Kelly got life, as did his wife Kathryn and Mrs. Shannon. Shannon got 10 years.

HISTORIC SUCCESS FOR MILDER LOWER-PRICED OLD CROW!

The "call for Crow" is heard more and more throughout the land as new thousands each day enjoy Old Crow in a lighter, milder, 86 Proof bottling, companion to the world-famous 100 Proof Bottled in Bond!

The response to the introduction of Old Crow's lighter, milder, 86 Proof bottling as a lower-priced companion to the celebrated 100 Proof Bottled in Bond has been overwhelming. The number of discerning bourbon buyers who are enjoying the favorite whiskey of such men of history as Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, and Mark Twain, grows greater day by day.

From the time, over 100 years ago, when James Crow first fixed his name on a barrel of his remarkable whiskey, Old Crow has kept pace with the growth of America. Many a pioneer who set out to build a home in the western wilderness carried along an earthenware jug filled with Old Crow. And many an Easterner announced with pride to his guests that the liquor of the evening would be Old Crow; while Southern planters who insisted on Old Crow's quality served it to celebrate a fine crop season.

Today, when you raise a glass of this world-renowned whiskey, 86 Proof or 100 Proof Bond, you, too, will discover the finest Kentucky bourbon ever put into glass.

Americans Could Up Pay By Carefulness

CHICAGO — American workers could increase their take home pay by as much as a half a billion dollars annually simply by being a little more careful.

Workers lost almost a billion dollars in wages in 1953 as a result of work accidents, according to the National Safety Council although about half that amount was returned to them in compensation payments.

"Accident Facts," the council's statistical yearbook, just off the press, places the total cost of on-the-job accidents at $3,150,000,000. This figure includes wage losses, medical expenses, insurance overhead costs and indirect costs.

New Booklet On State's Land Of the Osage

JEFFERSON CITY—The latest in the series of area booklets depicting the recreational advantages of Missouri's Land of the Osage, has been received from the printer by the Division of Resources and Development. This brochure, of 36 pages and cover, describes ten counties of western Missouri: Cass, Bates, Vernon, Barton, Dade, Cedar, St. Clair, Henry, Hickory and Polk.

Full color photographs are featured on the covers and the center spread. Seventy-five black and white photographs tell the story of this part of Missouri. Practically all the photographs are the work of Gerald Massie, Resources and Development photographer. The front cover shows an Indian in full Osage regalia on the bank of the Osage River, overlooking the scenic valley.

The history of the Osage Indians while in Missouri is recounted in the narrative which begins: "A region of great beauty, with a varied topography, including medicinal springs, deep valleys, level plains and sloping hills, all rich in the lore of the past—this is the Land of the Osage."

Single copies of the booklet may be obtained free by writing the Division of Resources and Development, Jefferson City, Missouri.

Moscow Again Demands US Release Ship

MOSCOW (U-P)—Russia has sent a third note to the United States demanding immediate release of the Soviet tanker Tuapse, held by the Chinese Nationalists at Formosa. In their latest protest, handed to the U.S. Embassy yesterday, the Soviets threatened to ask damages from the United States for capture of the 8,840-ton ship by the Chinese Nationalists on June 23.

The note declared: "The Soviet government considers the government of the United States fully responsible for the capture of the Soviet tanker Tuapse as well as for the security of the crew and safety of the vessel."

The Soviet government, the note continued, "reaffirms its protest against further holding of the tanker and insists on immediate liberation of the tanker, its cargo and crew. The Soviet government reserves the right to demand from the United States government compensation for all damage inflicted on the Soviet Union in connection with the illegal capture of the tanker Tuapse."

The Soviet newspapers Pravda and Izvestia published the government statement, recalling the original Soviet protest of June 24 which was repeated July 2. The United States disclaimed responsibility for the ship's seizure in notes of June 26 and July 4.

The Chinese Nationalists meanwhile admitted they captured and were holding the ship, which was carrying a cargo of petroleum products to the China mainland. It was seized in the Luzon Strait, between Formosa and the Philippines.

The Soviet note yesterday called the U.S. notes a "groundless denial of participation by naval authorities of the United States, although not refuting the well known fact that U.S. naval forces control the high seas where the act of crude violation of freedom of navigation took place."

GALVESTON, Tex. (U-P)—Doctors reported today that a jelly fish sting killed Allan Reeves, 9, of Dallas. They said it was the first known case in Texas Gulf coast waters.

The jelly fish stung young Reeves in the foot, then lashed him across the arm and chest. He died in a hospital.

Miss Universe Judges Ponder Greek Entries

LONG BEACH, Calif. (U-P)—The Miss Universe committee today finds itself in a Hellenic predicament — two entries from Greece.

The unusual problem was created by the U.S. State Department. Rika Dialina, who originally won the Miss Greece title in Athens, was refused a visa to this country for the international beauty contest. An artist, she had once drawn an illustration used in a Communist book. Her sponsors vouched for her patriotism, but the McCarran Act denies a visa to anyone who aids in the production of Communist literature.

That meant that runner-up Effi Ardoulakakis came here to represent her country.

But Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gallantly stepped in and cleared Miss Dialina for entry. She arrives in this country today.

One pageant official predicts that both girls will be allowed to compete.

"When the U.S. State Department puts you on such a spot," he asked, "what else can we do?" He believes that one will go into the finals as Miss Island of Crete.

Preliminaries of the Miss U.S.A. contest get under way today with four days of weeding out ahead of them.

The domestic winner will be crowned tomorrow night and then will go on to compete against the foreign entrants for the Miss Universe title Friday night.

Beacon Goes Berserk, Indicates All Weather

KANSAS CITY (U-P)—Atop an office building here is an electric beacon which indicates the weather forecasts by flashing colored lights.

After many days of temperatures near 110 degrees, the beacon last night flipped its lid—or switches. It began flashing in quick succession the signs for fair weather, cloudy skies, rain and snow.

Martin Kauffman, the man who sets the control dials, observed in dismay:

"The thing must be suffering from heat stroke."

Japanese Paper Says Nationalists Catch Fleeing Diplomat

TOKYO (U-P)—A Nationalist Chinese diplomat, reported trying to flee to the Reds, was taken off a British ship 11 days ago along with his family and flown to Formosa early today under heavy guard. The newspaper said Vice Consul Shen Chi, 42, his wife and two sons boarded a British ship for Hong Kong in Yokohama July 9. It said Chinese Embassy officials asked Japanese immigration authorities to take the family off the ship at Kobe, south of here.

The Nationalist Chinese threatened to stop the ship off Formosa with destroyers if the man was not handed over, the newspaper said.

No confirmation was available from either the Chinese Embassy in Tokyo or the Japanese Foreign Ministry.

Takes His Stage Role Seriously—With Mumps

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (U-P)—Gilbert McKelvie is one of those actors who likes to get the feel of his part.

McKelvie was assigned the role of an Indian in the annual presentation here of "The Sword of Gideon." Just before opening night, McKelvie came down with the mumps.

However, he went on in his part of the Indian named "Hismouth-stretches."

Jenkins' Name Appears On Primary Ballot

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (U-P)—Ray H. Jenkins said recently he would not run for the Senate, but his name will be on the Republican primary ballot Aug. 5 anyway.

Jenkins neglected to give official notification needed to cancel qualifying petitions filed by friends after he gained the public eye as special counsel in the televised Army-McCarthy hearings.

Jenkins could not be reached for comment, but his wife said, "Ray isn't a candidate for any office."

Postpones Court Case Because of Heat

ST. LOUIS (U-P)—It was 110 degrees on a thermometer outside Circuit Judge Robt. J. Kirkwood's office window yesterday and that was too hot for court.

The judge postponed a trial until Sept. 7 "because of matters beyond the control of the court, resulting in the absolute impossibility of the court to hear and determine this matter."

The case involved a dispute over control of a weekly newspaper.

Police Are Looking For Drive-In Robber

BEL AIR, Md. (U-P)—Police are looking for a drive-in robber. Harford County Sheriff Raymond Faulkner said the proprietor of the Bel Air Drive-in Theater reported the thief drove up in an old model just as the box office was closing. He pointed a pistol at the proprietor and demanded the cash box. He escaped with more than $600. He never left the car, the sheriff said.

Police Find 'Lost' Armored Car Safe

PHILADELPHIA (U-P)—Police "lost" a Philadelphia Transportation Co. armored car reportedly carrying $300,000 yesterday and there was some mad scurrying about the city for a brief spell before it was found again—safe in a company garage.

The car was involved in an accident with another vehicle and several persons suffering minor injuries were taken to nearby hospitals by police cars.

Before leaving the scene, the officers radioed for added help to guard the contents of the armored car. Meanwhile, a company tow truck arrived and towed the disabled car to a garage.

Chain Reaction Ruins Her Window Curtains

UTICA, N.Y. (U-P)—It was a chain reaction — literally — that ruined Mrs. Alphonse Majewski's curtains. A Public Works Department truck was dragging a tree limb through the screen when a chain attached to the limb snapped. A link, heated by friction from grinding along the pavement, flew through Mrs. Majewski's window, setting fire to the curtains.

Judge Eases Sentence For Right Direction

COLUMBIA, S.C. (U-P)—David Joyner's unusual plea on a drunkenness charge paid off in City Court here yesterday. He admitted he was drunk but said he was on his way to church.

"At least," said the judge, "you were headed in the right direction. So drunk or sober, I'm going to suspend your sentence."

Missouri and Kansas Senators Are Pushing For Drought Relief

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Missouri and Kansas senators still are pushing for federal drought relief aid. Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) told the Senate yesterday that "thousands of small farmers of my state are facing financial ruin because of the searing heat."

He suggested the federal government could buy canned meat for school lunch program to stabilize the cattle market.

Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan.) also urged the Agriculture Department to start buying beef because the drought has ruined pastures and cattle are being rushed to market.

The department has said it has started negotiations for a new hay program to help farmers feed livestock.
